Secure Valuable Prizes for Local Calf Club

Through the combined efforts of Garner Onell, President of the Crossfield Calf Club and Frank Collicutt, noted Hereford breeder, they were successful in securing a donation of $35 from the Alberta Hereford Association towards the Crossfield Calf Club, at the annual meeting of the Association held in Calgary recently.

The money will be divided into four prizes, first $15, second $10.00, third $5.00, fourth $5.00, and will go to exhibitors of Hereford calves at the local Calf Club.

The members of the local Club are indebted to the Alberta Hereford Association for this splendid donation, and also to Messrs Onell and Collicutt who pointed out why the Crossfield Calf Club were worthy of recognition.

Entertainment for Cancer Funds

The representatives of the different organizations of Crossfield and District are requested to attend a meeting at the Fire Hall on Tuesday evening next at 8 o'clock to consider the drawing up of a programme for the anniversary of the King's Silver Jubilee May 6th. The proceeds of the Entertainment to go towards the Dominion Cancer Fund. Mayor W. Wood will occupy the chair.

The New Governor General

John Buchan, M.P., prominent Conservative Member for the Scottish Universities and writer of note, has been appointed successor to the Earl of Bessborough as Governor General of Canada.

When Lord Bessborough was appointed Governor General we venture to state his name was known to but very few Canadians, and when he leaves Canada this fall, we doubt if we will ever hear of him again.

Legislators Turn On The Heat

The members of the Legislature are having a lot of excitement during the closing week of the session, some of the highlights: The passing of a bill to muzzle the press; Tony McPherson taking a clout at the editor of the Bulletin; the Mayor of Edmonton given the buns rush from the visitors gallery when he called Mr. McPherson a liar, and still the battle rages.

The Social Credit Boycott

On Sunday's broadcast we were informed of a stated case south of Calgary where a merchant had been boycotted because he could not see the practicability of the Social Credit proposals of one Wm. Aberhart. We are also aware that similar action has been taken in our neighboring Village of Carstairs, particularly against a disabled returned soldier who has already proved his loyalty to his country and feels that he does not wish it ruined. We may not endorse his continued loyalty to a lost party, but we do his courage in proclaiming it. Fear of boycott keeps others quiet.

A man who pays his bills is free to trade where he wants to but some of those who are boycotting are leaving unpaid bills behind them. Action of this nature is rotten and absolutely against all British ideas of fair play and freedom to think and vote according to ones conscience. This type of spite reflects no credit on the proponents of Social Credit in that district and we are thankful that more tolerance for the other fellows views is shown here.

Why are Trucksters and Track Buyers Exempt?

Our Council are busy enforcing collection of arrears of business taxes, and while on this important task, may we point out a few bits they are overlooking.

It has been brought to our notice, that our prominent track grain buyer, has not been approached for a business tax, although he has done considerable business during the past two years.

We have no fault to find with this party buying grain at Crossfield, if he is in a position to pay more than the Elevator Companies, good business—for that will aid in circulating more funds, but if he does business here, then he is in conjunction with the rest of us is entitled to pay business tax.

A certain sum requires to be raised by taxation, and by everyone entitled to pay taxes being levied this means a fairer proportion being paid by property owners.

Another avenue of taxation, Village Council, is that of trucksters, and if they are to use our streets, then let them contribute to their upkeep. If the village is good enough to do business in, then its upkeep should be good enough for all trucks peddling saleable goods to pay to.

The business tax is a fair one, and is for the purpose of collecting from non-property owners, and why not? For after all the more taxes collected from business taxes and pedlars, will help to reduce the general rate to the property owners who are the people who pay year in and year out, whether the years are good or bad.

Jubilee Cancer Fund

Alberta is leading the Dominion in its response to the Silver Jubilee Cancer Fund.

This gratifying announcement was made last week by His Excellency, the Earl of Bessborough when he visited Calgary on his farewell tour. In discussing the campaign, which honors his Majesty's accession to the throne, His Excellency was particularly pleased with the small gifts coming in from Alberta school children.

"I am most anxious that everyone will contribute a little rather than a few should donate large sums." His Excellency said when the campaign is over the complete list of donors will be sent to His Majesty, King George V, this being Canada's only national gesture towards the Silver Jubilee celebrations.

The money obtained from the Silver Jubilee Cancer Fund will be used to prevent and cure cancer in Canada. Send your contribution to Lady Bessborough today. She will acknowledge it by means of a card bearing the photographs of their Majesties, the King and Queen. Without many little donations accomplished, proper bullets are needed in this war. Help save mothers and fathers. They are the victims.

Alberta has led the way in many worth causes. Now she is leading the Jubilee Cancer Fund. Help her to keep this enviable position by sending in your donation today.

You And Your Country

Throughout the length and breadth of this Dominion, at public gatherings of every description, banquets, Canadian Club, Service clubs, Board of Trade meetings, political gatherings, school assemblies, etc., men and women justly sing "O Canada, we stand on guard for thee" while to the south across the line of the 49th parallel our neighbors sing "My country 'tis of thee." In Canada, on July 1st we proudly celebrate the uniting of the several Provinces into one confederation thus creating this young nation, while on July 4th our American cousins rejoice in commemorating the obtaining of their independence.

Both countries to-day, in common with the rest of the world, are facing grave difficulties—difficulties of an economic character resulting from the Great War and the insane wave of narrow economic nationalism which has since swept over the nations, leading them to think of "my country" only and utterly regarding the rest—which should never have been lost sight of—that in this modern world no country can think only of and live unto itself alone.

Now, because these policies of national self-sufficiency, of economic isolation, have failed to work—on the contrary, have resulted in a stagnation of world trade and loss to all nations and peoples—and unemployment on a gigantic scale with all its attendant losses and sufferings for millions of people prevail, men and women everywhere are no longer thinking in terms of their country, but are thinking solely of themselves.

As the direct outcome of their personal difficulties, and this thinking of themselves instead of their fellowmen, their community and their country—in a word, narrow nationalism developed to its ultimate and inevitable end—men and women are now demanding that, instead of standing on guard for their country, the country should do everything for them. Wrong thinking has brought many people to entertain the idea that, instead of them owing any duty or obligations to their country, the country owes everything to them, and if the country will not or cannot supply all their needs and desires, then they are prepared to destroy their country.

All governments the world over are now being asked to do the impossible, because people have forgotten that governments are, after all, but the people themselves acting in a corporate capacity. So it is that, as individuals, people are demanding that their governments shall do for them, and assume burdens and responsibilities on their behalf, which are too great and heavy for the people as a whole to assume and carry, because whatever a government does the people must pay for.

There is a crying need for a reconstruction in our thinking in these trying times; it is absolutely necessary that as a people we give much more thought to fundamentals and less to the incidentals of life.

One of these fundamentals is that no person should expect or ask a government to do anything for him that he can possibly do for himself. We create governments not to do things for us that we can and ought to do ourselves as individuals, but only to do those things that single-handed we cannot do, but collectively we can do. What we can do ourselves, we ought to do and must do because we can do it better, more economically and more efficiently, and more to our satisfaction, than any government can possibly do.

A second fundamental is that in order that those things we must rely on governments to do for us in our community or national life can be done we, as individuals, must supply with means through taxation to enable the government to act. Therefore, one of the first efforts of all people should be to pay their just taxes and pay them as promptly as possible. Unfortunately, a habit of mind has developed to an alarming extent that the payment of taxes is the last thing about which an individual should concern himself or herself. Many people are prepared to pay any and every other obligation before their obligations to governments; indeed, many go ahead gratifying their desires and wishes with money which actually does not belong to them, but is rightfully the property of the State—that is, the property of all the people to be used for the benefit not of one individual but of the community and nation. So long as this idea prevails, and is acted upon, governments cannot do what they are created to do, are expected to do, and would if they had the means wherewith to do it.

Within recent years thousands of people, lacking employment, have received hundreds, and some families over a period of years, thousands of dollars in relief payments to provide them with the necessities of life which in more normal times they provided for themselves out of wages earned. But if they are asked to do a few days or weeks work now to be credited against the advances made to them during these years, many of these people refuse to make payment through the rendering of the service asked of them. Yet they have already been paid for such work at a rate which actually totals hundreds of dollars a week for any work they might now do. Are they giving a thought to their country now, or only thinking of themselves? Are they helping their governments to continue to help them, or are they weakening their governments in the efforts being put forth in their behalf.

What is your attitude to your country?

Siam Buys Fighting Craft

Secures Speedy Motor Torpedo Boat From Great Britain
Siam has bought from Great Britain the world's fastest warship—or so it is claimed to be. She is one of the new motor torpedo boats, carrying a crew of five, two 18-inch torpedoes, two depth charges, four Lewis guns and the latest word in smoke-screen laying apparatus. On a trial run she developed a speed of just over 42 knots—or rather more than 50 miles per hour. The ship will carry a crew of five, and is designed for coastal work with an average cruising range of 300 miles. Quite a useful little craft, and Siam is to purchase two more of them. Of course, they are not new. The Royal Navy had them at least three years ago. Then they were very much in the mystery-ship class, and a guest in one of His Majesty's ships for dinner might get severely snubbed when he asked questions about them. The navy was not giving away any secrets then. From which it may be safely presumed that, as they are now selling this craft to foreign powers, they must certainly must have a newer and more improved model "up their sleeve."

AT 62—IN BED WITH RHEUMATISM

At 65—Working Again

Why worry about rheumatism? This old fellow had it almost as bad as you could be. But he just found the right remedy, stuck to it, and now he's working again—at 65 years of age.

Let him tell you all about it:—"For two years and a half," he writes, "I have suffered from rheumatism. For eighteen months I could not turn over in bed, nor help myself in any way. My legs and feet were swollen, and I could not sleep or get any rest until I started taking Kruschen Salts. After taking one bottle, I went about on two crutches. I kept on taking it, as I found the pains were leaving me. I have taken six bottles, and now I have started work again. I am 65 years of age, and everybody that knows me says I am a wonder to get on, after what I was."—J.B.

Do you realize what causes rheumatism? Nothing but sharp-edged uric acid crystals which form as the result of sluggish eliminating organs. Kruschen Salts can always be counted upon to clear those painful crystals from the system.

Chinese Pirates

Vessels Along Coast Of China To Be Armed To Repel Attacks

Investigation following the pirating of the steamer Tungchow, attacked early in the year, which was carrying 75 mission school children, including some Canadians, from Shanghai to Chefoo has convinced the China Navigation Company that if piracy is to be stamped out along the China coast, passenger ships must be protected by more powerful guns who are "quick on the draw."

It was indicated the heavy pistols used by the Russian guards on the Tungchow were too unwieldy to be drawn quickly. The British-owned company has now announced the guards on its vessels will be increased to 50 per cent. and be supplied with weapons which can be brought into action promptly.

Session Prorogued

Manitoba Government Authorizes Large Sum For Hydro Extension
The third session of the 19th Manitoba legislature has prorogued. Lieutenant-Governor W. J. Tupper giving royal assent to 56 bills passed during the last few days of the session.

Among bills given royal assent were money measures providing for total expenditures of $14,083,000 during the next fiscal year, and authorization for a capital outlay for Manitoba hydro extensions over a large area.

Enabling legislation making Manitoba the first province in the Dominion to take steps to provide pensions for blind persons also was approved.

Little Journeys In Science

THE STRUGGLE TO LIVE

(By Gordon H. Guest, M.A.)
Every plant and animal is exposed to unfavorable conditions, and the organism must successfully contend with these conditions in order to remain alive. No two plants or parts of plants are exposed to exactly the same conditions. Some plants combat the cold by their particular conditions either by dying, or by adapting itself to them.

The tree withstands the cold by stopping its active growth, hardening its tissues and dropping its leaves. Many herbaceous or soft-stemmed plants meet the cold by dying to the ground and withdrawing all life into the plant or the roots. Some plants combat the cold by dying outright, and providing abundance of seeds to perpetuate the kind next season.

Plants adapt themselves to light by growing towards it; or by hanging their leaves in such a position that they catch the light. In less sunny places they increase their leaf surface, or greatly lengthen their stems so as to overtop their fellows, as do trees and vines.

The struggle for existence and adaptation to conditions are among the most significant facts in nature. The sum of all the conditions in which a plant or an animal is placed is called environment. Environment comprises the conditions of climate, soil, moisture, exposure to light, relation to food supply and contention with other plants or animals. The organism either adapts itself to its environment or else it weakens and dies.

The plants that most perfectly meet the conditions in which they are placed are able to persist, and they perpetuate themselves. Their offspring usually inherit some of the characteristics which enabled them successfully to meet the battle of life, and the fit, that is those best adapted to their conditions, tend to survive.

Adaptation to conditions depends on the fact of variation. If plants were perfectly invariable, that is, all exactly alike, they could not meet the conditions. Conditions are necessarily new for every organism and it is impossible to picture a perfectly invariable, stable succession of plants or animals.

Man has modified plants and animals for his use. All our common domestic animals are very unlike their original ancestors, and our common and long-cultivated plants have varied from their original forms.

By selecting seeds from a plant that has desirable characteristics, and may, under given conditions, produce numbers of plants more or less as the desired form, man has been able to develop new varieties. From that time, he may again choose; and so on until the race becomes greatly improved. This process of continuously choosing the most suitable plants is known as selection. A somewhat similar process goes on in wild nature, and it is then known as natural selection.

Why Your Head Aches

Too Much Air In Ventricles According To Science

Does your head ache? Then there's too much air in your ventricles—tiny little spaces within the brain connected to the spinal canal.

Science has ascertained, Dr. Frederick Tinsley told the New York Academy of Medicine that headaches are apt to occur when air gets into the third and lateral of these little spaces.

Hyper-sensitive persons may derive a headache from consuming milk or eggs, sugar and other foods. Dr. Alexander Lambert told the symposium. Excessive smoking may bring pain to another. Some persons get a headache from coffee; others may use coffee to cure the same ail.

Prince Sudhodaya, Siam's abdicated King Prajadhipok, collected the first payment on insurance which he took out several years ago against the loss of his throne. Weekly payments from French and British firms will give airdread Sudhodaya about $40,000 a year for the rest of his life.

Population Readjustment

Many Families Returning To Farming Occupation Throughout Dominion

"A great readjustment of population is taking place throughout Canada and the return of families back to farming occupation will, I am sure, have a beneficial effect upon unemployment conditions," stated Dr. W. J. Black, of Montreal, director of colonization and agriculture for the Canadian National Railways, in an interview at Winnipeg.

"The offices of the company in the Western region handled close to 5,000 land enquiries in 1934. From these enquiries it has developed that 935 families from other parts of Canada, United States and drought-stricken Europe have been placed on land. Our district offices also co-operated very closely with the provincial governments under the Dominion-provincial subsidized back-to-the-land schemes," Dr. Black said.

"In the three prairie provinces 827 relief families in addition to the above were transformed from urban centers to farms, making a total of 1,767 families returned to the primary industry."

"During the last four years our western offices located 5,857 families on over one million acres of land. This readjustment tends to effect a better balance between urban and rural population."

"Several new settlements were commenced in the northern areas of Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta. These are offshoots of various national and religious parent colonies whose younger generation is anxious to found farm homes for themselves."

A Matter Of Economy

Mass Ceremony In Shanghai Out Cost Of Wedding

The Chinese government delivered a telling blow at the high cost of weddings when 76 couples marched to the altar together and were married in a simple ceremony, with General Wu-Teh-Chen, mayor of Shanghai, officiating.

Aimed at setting an example of economy to the nation in accordance with Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek's "new life" movement, the ceremony was devoid of all the frills and extravagance characterizing the traditional Chinese wedding.

To the labored strains of Mendelssohn's "Wedding March" played by a Chinese brass band, the marriage candidates paraded down the crimson-carpeted aisle while a crowd of 1,200 persons, largely relatives, looked on.

The couples ascended the platform in groups of four, bowed three times before the statue of Sun Yat Sen, "father of the republic," bowed twice before each other and one to the mayor. They then received brilliant congratulations from relatives which made them man and wife.

The traditional wedding vows to heaven, earth and ancestors were dispensed with and each marriage was completed in two minutes. The government charged each couple the equivalent of $7 for the ceremony, the price including the certificate and a gift to the bride.

"Eat More Eggs" Campaign

No Article Of Food More Nutritious Or More Universally Used

Notwithstanding the fact that Canadians, with an annual per capita consumption of eggs of 258, the highest of any people among the countries of the world, the Winnipeg Board of Trade is evidently not satisfied that the people of the metropolis of the prairies are fully conscious of the value of eggs as food. An egg campaign was launched in that city on April 1 to continue for three weeks.

Aside from the commercial importance of eggs, which is very significant in the Dominion, no article of food is more nutritious or more universally used. Ninety-seven per cent. of the edible portion of an egg is digestible, a claim that few, if any, of the other foods can make. It has vitamins A, B, D, and G. It also has mineral elements including sulphur, phosphorus, iron, calcium, and magnesium in easily digestible form.

In 1934, Canadians ate more than 3,600,000,000 eggs, which, if placed end to end, would extend to a distance equal to four times the circumference of the earth. The market value of the eggs produced in Canada in 1934 was about $30,000,000. The Dominion was the first country in the world to introduce egg grading in any form. This was done in 1918 for export purposes only at that time. In 1923 egg grading regulations were enacted to apply to domestic consumption and since then has proven to be a decided advantage to both producer and consumer.

Dominion Botanist Makes Plea For Botanical Gardens To Study Wealth Of Plant Life In Canada

Canada's need for botanical gardens in which to assemble and to study her great wealth of plant resources as well as plant wealth from other parts of the globe, was discussed recently by Dr. H. T. Gussow, Dominion botanist, in lecture theatre B, University of Manitoba. This need was first voiced in February, 1886, by the late Dr. William Saunders, who said: "It has long been a reflection on Canadian taste and progress that we have not botanical gardens in the Dominion. In Australia and India are several such gardens, supported by the government. Botanic gardens have also long been established in Ceylon, the Mauritius, Jamaica and several others of the West Indies. Canada is indeed the only important British colony where such an institution is wanting." In 1935 it is still wanting, but urgently needed, it was shown by Dr. Gussow.

Briefly defined by Dr. Gussow, a botanical garden serves as a centre for all branches of the study of plants, and for the study of the practical application of the knowledge obtained by its workers, to economic, medical and industrial problems. It aims at making representation of as many families of plants as possible or of characteristic orders and biologically interesting species. It is a living museum, and a place for rest and recreation. It is not a sports ground, nor an amusement park, though its beauty may delight the eyes and stimulate aesthetic and intellectual life, as does an art gallery or a museum.

The drawing power of botanical gardens is indicated by a reference to Kew botanical gardens—the world's most famous sample of this type of garden, in an annual attendance of 2,000,000 persons, many of whom are scientists and students from all parts of the world. Occupying 300 acres and equipped with a herbarium of two million specimens of plants and a library, Kew gardens serve all the world.

Discovered In Transvaal

Fourth Largest Diamond In World May Go To U.S.

An unnamed American is understood to have offered $500,000 for the famous Jonker diamond, the world's fourth largest stone, weighing 176 carats. It is the size of a hen's egg.

If the offer is accepted by the Diamond Corporation, the present owner, the stone, it is reported, will be cut into several smaller diamonds to form an arrangement of carats and necklaces.

The stone was discovered in January, 1934, by a native digger on a claim owned by Jacobus Jonker in Blandfontein, Transvaal, Africa. Jonker sold it a few days later to Sir Ernest Oppenheimer, chairman of the Diamond Corporation, for a reported price of $375,000.

Jonker had been digging for fourteen years and was about to forsake his claim. His wife urged him on, and the next day his assistant, washing a bucket of earth and gravel, cried, "I found it!"

After selling the diamond, Jonker evolved a unique scheme to make good use of his wealth. He set aside $300 ($1,500) a year for his family and decided to buy land with the remainder to give poor whites a start in life. He believes that within 30 years at least 100 white persons will be living independently on farms he is buying them.

Since its arrival in London, the diamond, which has a rare "extra-blue-white" purity, has been hidden in the Diamond Corporation's vaults. It costs $15,000 a year interest on the investment and insurance.

Russia's Cheap Airplane

Is Only Suitable For Touring And Training Purposes

Russian experts, after long experimentation, announced the development of an aeroplane powered by an ordinary light automobile engine.

This engine is the type manufactured in great quantities by the Gorky motor factory.

The new plane is a two-seater which operates on ordinary auto gasoline. Inasmuch as it attains a speed of only 70 miles an hour its chief value aside from touring, is for training purposes.

Paintings May Be Valuable

Believed To Be Work Of Great Venetian Artist

A worn, discolored canvas which its owners believe is a famous "lost" Titian Madonna, and two other paintings supposedly by the great Venetian painter have been taken to New York for expert opinion.

The paintings are the property of Henry Cini, of Stafford Springs, Conn., who is sure that they are not only genuine Titians but worth $1,500,000, too.

The paintings were taken to Mrs. Robert H. Grimes, at a Park avenue hotel. Several experts who have seen them have pronounced them "very valuable" and expressed the opinion that at least the Madonna is a real Titian, Mrs. Grimes said.

The "lost" Titian Madonna has been the despair of connoisseurs for many years.

The most elaborate of the Cini paintings shows a Madonna in faded red and blue drapery, with a standing Christ Child while another celestial infant kisses the foot of the first one.

Another depicts St. Joseph holding the infant Christ in his arms while the baby waves his staff. The third painting is of a guardian angel with one arm thrown around a smaller angel and the other arm outstretched toward a bevy of cherubim. The canvas of the Madonna has some large holes, the St. Joseph smaller tears, while that of the guardian angel is almost ragged with age.

Modelled After Mounties

Newfoundland May Soon Have New "Red Coat" Force

A force of rangers modelled after the Royal Canadian Mounted Police will be formed by the Newfoundland and Labrador government as soon as approval is given by the Dominion office in London.

Consisting of 52 men at the start, the force will set up 18 posts on the island and five in Labrador, and for some time to come they will have to go through the pioneer work carried on in Canada by the Royal Northwest Mounted Police before the larger Canadian force was organized.

A chief ranger, one inspector, seven rangers, six corporals and 37 rangers will be assigned to the task of patrolling Newfoundland, outside the Avalon Peninsula, and the great little known hinterland.

Aeroplanes, automobiles, motor boats, horses and dog teams will be their "mounties" as they carry on not only police work but "administrative" activities in connection with customs, relief and protection of forests and game.

World's Most Accurate Clocks

Exhibits In Berlin Operated By Vibrations Of Quartz Crystal

Declared to be the four most accurate clocks in the world, novel timepieces are being exhibited by the Reichs Institute for Physics in Berlin, where they were made. They are operated by the vibrations of a quartz crystal, and are said to deviate from the right time only 0.002 seconds in six months. The crystal is hung in a vacuum glass tube which is placed inside a box surrounded by a second box. The walls of both boxes are composed of copper tubes, air, aluminum and feathers, which keep the temperature within unchanged. An electric current which vibrates through the crystal which vibrates 60,000 times a second, and these vibrations influence an alternating current which keeps the clock going.

Would Amend Criminal Code

Proposal To Prohibit Passing Of Death Sentence On Women

A proposal amendment to the criminal code which would prohibit the passing of a death sentence on any female prisoner was filed with the clerk of the House of Commons by T. L. Church (Cons., Toronto East), the Toronto Globe says.

"Sentence of death shall not be passed on any female person under the provisions of this act," the Globe says the amendment reads. It also provides, says the Globe story, that, "on a trial by jury of a female person under any section of this act, one-third of the jurors chosen to try the issue shall be females, duly qualified on the same basis as male jurors."

Was Nemesis Of Spies

Detective Who Was Active During War Dies In London

Henry T. Fitch, 58, former Scotland Yard detective, whose duties as personal bodyguard to the late King Edward at the turn of the century brought him the nickname, King's Shadow, died suddenly in London.

Fitch was active in tracking down spies during the Great War and also played a part in tracing the "master German spy" Steinhilber, who operated in London shortly before the war.

In his book, "Traitors Within," Fitch recounted other anti-espionage work on Great Britain's east coast during the war in the course of which several spies were captured and five of them later executed.

The book also recounts how Fitch disguised himself as a waiter in a Soho cafe, served Lenin and Trotsky and obtained valuable documents by "accidentally" knocking a bundle of papers to the floor.

Man Plans Best Kitchen

Model Was Given First Place Among 20,000 Entries

A man won the national $5,000 competition organized by the British Commercial Gas Association against 20,000 women. The competition was the planning of a modern labor-saving kitchen, and the winner, Anthony Trev, a retired architect of Poole, is 75 years of age.

The second prize, $1,000, was divided between Miss Elliott Douglas, of Kelso, Roxburghshire, and Mrs. N. Collins, of Stoke-on-Trent.

Mr. Trev explains he made cardboard scale models of the ground plan of the kitchen and cut out cards to represent the space for the various fittings. From several plans he selected his prize-winning one.

The SNAPSHOT GUILD THE CANDID CAMERA

It is the unusual, "candid" picture that attracts attention.

"Candid photography." What is it? Just this. It is one of the most fascinating branches of amateur photography and furthermore is fast becoming one of the most popular sports with those who wish to glorify their snapshot collections with unusual, out-of-the-ordinary type of pictures.

For excitement, candid photography is a first cousin to big game hunting or deep-sea fishing but you need not go to the wilds of the Congo nor off the coast of Florida to stalk your quarry. You will find plenty of material to shoot right in your old home town.

You may still say, "Well, what is this candid photography?" Candid photography is nothing more nor less than taking pictures of people when they are unaware that they are being photographed. It is the type of photography in which the photographer catches them in natural, unposed positions with natural expressions. It might be called "innocent" photography—informal snapshots.

The essence of candid photography is action. Get pictures of people doing things. Such pictures should be taken as close to the subject as possible, for we are usually featuring people in the type of photography and they should be predominating in the picture.

When we speak of snapping people in "action" or "doing something" it does not necessarily mean that the person should be actually on person asleep may make a great candid camera picture. He is doing something.

Don't think for one minute that the move. An unusual picture of a candid photography means that you go around just shooting a hit-and-run fashion. Any six-year-old child can do that. If you want to really enjoy the thrills that come with candid photography you will want to give it considerable thought.

The modern miniature camera has been the leading factor in the development and popularity of candid photography. First of all, its size makes it less conspicuous than the camera using a 3½ x 4½ or larger film. It's ready for action on a moment's notice, for with the majority of makes the camera ready for quick focusing.

Where, when and how you take your candid snapshots depends almost entirely on your equipment. If you are to be a real dyed-in-the-wool candid snapper you will shoot under conditions "as is" and not as you make them.

There are many things to consider in this fascinating hobby of candid photography and it takes practice and patience if you want to get the fullest enjoyment out of it. Next week we will discuss personal and mechanical requirements for the candid enthusiasts.

Putting It In Figures

Expert Helps Us To Realize Destructiveness Of Dust Storms

If the reader happens to have wondered idly how much earth was moved in the recent dust storms in the Western States, of which reports have been appearing in press despatches, he might be interested in the estimate made by an expert of Kansas State College.

According to this expert, if a 98 mile line of 1½ ton trucks could be put to work hauling 10 loads each per day, it would take them a year to haul back to Western Kansas the dirt that was blown over to the eastern section of the State. Altogether, he figures, there would be 46,500,000 truckloads to be moved.

Putting the situation in this form helps one to realize the terrible destructiveness of a dust storm. It is not necessary to have very much imagination to understand that a large quantity of good farm land must have been ruined to provide all those millions of truckloads of dust.

Chinese Doctor Hopes Isolate "Thevenin" A New Stimulant

From a poisonous nut, which has killed thousands of persons, medical science has isolated a new drug more effective than digitalis in the treatment of heart disease.

This announcement was made at Toronto by Dr. Albert S. Hyman, director of the Witkin Foundation of Beth Israel Hospital, and Dr. K. K. Chen, director of pharmaceutical research of the Lilly Research Laboratories in Indianapolis.

The new drug is called thevenin by its discoverers. It is derived from the nut of the be-till or yellow oleander tree, which grows in Hawaii and India.

Since last September it has been used experimentally with "remarkable success" at Beth Israel Hospital under Dr. Hyman's direction.

Dr. Chen, a brilliant Chinese, famous for his application of science to ancient Chinese remedies first began to investigate the properties of the be-till nut three years ago because of the deaths of many persons who had eaten it.

He found that it contained a powerful poison, but this poison, properly used, stimulated heart action. It is claimed that thevenin is superior to digitalis because it can be injected into the body, whereas digitalis has to be taken through the mouth.

Superstition In China

Laborers Reported To Have Made Human Sacrifices To Spirits

Superstitions which have persisted for centuries among South China farmers caused an enraged band to murder 14 railroad workers and kidnap 43 others. The crime followed fantastic reports that laborers had made human sacrifices of local residents to assuage the spirits who dwell underground, and to insure propitious weather for their work.

The fate of the 43 abducted workers is still unknown and fears have been expressed for their lives.

Reports were current recently in the Lianyung district, southwest of Honan, that railroad construction workers on the line between Canton and Hankow near Choukouan, had killed several of the inhabitants in order to offer their blood as a sacrifice to the underground spirits.

Man Has Strange Fear

Remains in House 30 Years To Avoid Having Pneumonia

In Sheffield, England, lives a man who, for the past 30 years, has never gone outside his own house. His self-imprisonment is caused by his fear of pneumonia—he feels that if he goes into the open air he will catch a cold and that will develop fatally. Although he never leaves the house, the man—John Scalfie—is in good health, and operates his business from his residence. Contact with other than members of his family and those connected with his business is another thing he forbids. His dread of the supposed dangers of the open air is not held by him alone, although in these days such a dread is rather hard to understand. The medical officer of health for a southern shire, whose duties take him into the houses of the richest and the poorest, tells of cases of cottagers who never open their windows and who, after he has smashed them (the windows, not the cottagers) in an effort to get the house thoroughly aired, immediately cover the openings with thick paper. Medical aid to the contrary, they have a horror of open air. And, remember, our ancestors, with their canopied beds which kept out the faintest suspicion of a "draught."

Sportsmen, "Swat That Crow"

Interest in Crow Destruction Week Growing Through The West

Canada's National Crow Destruction Week, commencing April 22nd, is getting well under way. This movement, in the interest of conservation of wild bird life, initiated by the Saskatchewan Fish and Game League, is spreading from coast to coast. Since the preliminary announcement two weeks ago, the Alberta Fish and Game League has circulated all its members urging co-operation. The Manitoba League is falling in line. Publications of national circulation, are urging sportsmen to accept the challenge thrown out to them to fight for the heritage of a plentiful supply of game bird and song bird life in this country. This battle with crows is not limited to the sportsman alone as chief participants. Farmers and ranchers are vitally interested. Those who prefer to hunt with the camera instead of the gun will do their part to rid the country of this most pestilent marauder of the spring crop of other birds' nests and of the black-headed pluffer of the young birds that succeed in hatching.

But calling the crow what he should be called and finding him guilty of his crimes, will not suffice, it is execution on the scaffold in the literal sense of the phrase, that is necessary for the success of this campaign. The duck are on the way back, over their centuries-old highways, to the prairie breeding grounds, in greatly diminished numbers. Soon, the sharp-tailed grouse, equally as defenceless as the duck, against the attack of the crow on the nest or the young, will be laying their nests full of eggs. From sixty to eighty per cent. of the early nests of those birds will be destroyed on the prairie, where cover is scarce by reason of the last four years' drought. Cattle starving for green food, during the winter of 1934-1935, cleaned off underbrush to such an extent, that nests will be as visible to the soaring crow as an airport to a pilot. One quarter of a million crows, each destroying one nest, will deprive one million game and song birds of the right to live.

Branches of Game Leagues everywhere are urged to get down to business in active organization, to reduce the crow population by at least one million, during the spring and summer of 1935. There is not much use in waiting on governments to assist. After all, the sportsmen ultimately is the best friend of the game bird and on the sportsman, rests the responsibility of fighting for the continued existence of his game, for himself and posterity.

Ten men in any community, interested in this problem, by expending one dollar each, can save the school children of the community, sufficient bounty at one cent per egg, to dispose of one thousand eggs. It would not be difficult to destroy one million crows by that means alone.

Then what about getting rid of a million crows before they have a chance to lay their eggs. Make the bounty five cents per pair of crow feet. The weapon, that has been used to put away, for the winter months, can be taken out again, and put to the most useful purpose for which it was ever employed, by sending well directed charges of shot at the crows, in competitions organized by sportsmen for that purpose. The decision of Cunard White Star marine designers to retain the knife-edge bow in the new super-liner "Queen Mary", as against the so-called bulbous bow, has started quite a controversy in shipping circles. All of the large liners built within the last few years feature the bulbous bow. However, it was the knife-edge bow which won the laurels as speed-queen of the Atlantic for 22 years after her launching. The "Queen Mary" is expected to enter the trans-Atlantic service in the early summer of 1936.

Birds Cause War Worry

Superstitions People Of Northern Europe Dislike Wax Wings

Because birds known as wax-wings have been seen recently in northern countries of Europe, superstitious people are predicting a European war or some other great calamity. ### THE FUTURE LIFE

Golden text: I am the resurrection and the life: he that believeth on me though he die, yet shall he live. John 11:25.

Devotional reading: Psalm 23:1-4.

Explanations And Comments

The Empty Tomb and the Good News, Luke 24:1-12. Early on Sunday morning after the crucifixion of Jesus, Mary Magdalene, and Joanna, and Mary the mother of James, and other women came to the tomb where his body had been laid, to embalm it with spices which they had prepared. To their great amazement, the stone that guarded the entrance to the tomb they found rolled away, and on entering, they found the tomb empty. They fell on their faces in fright when two men suddenly appeared and questioned. Why seek ye the living among the dead? Recall Peter's words in his sermon at Pentecost, "It was not possible that he should be hidden of death." "He is not here, but is risen." Then the messengers reminded the trembling group that Jesus had foretold his crucifixion and resurrection.

Can you not imagine in what excitement the women hurried off to tell the disciples? But the disciples could not credit their story. The words appeared to them as idle talk. Peter hastened to the tomb and looked in to behold the linen wrappings there but no body of his Lord and went away overcome with wonder.

The Promise of Christ, John 14:1-3. "Let not your heart be troubled." Jesus bade his sorrowing disciples in his farewell talk with them. It was no mere exhortation to keep up their courage, no comfortable optimism that he bade them hold, for he gave them a reason for untroubled hearts, told them how they could face the dark days ahead, when he added, "Believe in God, believe also in me." In spite of everything they must trust in the goodness of God and in their Lord's loving thought of them.

Separation was at hand, but there would be a reunion. By going away Jesus would make ready for his followers abiding places in His Father's home. The Greek word translated mansions means places of shelter, and the margin of the Revised Version has the translation abiding places. All people have a belief in a future life and this belief, Jesus would tell us, is true, for otherwise he would have disillusioned the minds of his followers.

Lord Darnley was considerable of a reprobate and his marriage with Mary was connived by Queen Elizabeth to anger John Knox as it would place their heir, a Catholic, in line for the throne. Lonely for the continental life she had been accustomed to, for Mary was brought up at the court of the Dauphin in France, she brought Rizzio, an Italian musician, to the Scotch court to entertain her. Returning one night in a rage, the jealous Darnley had Rizzio murdered by his followers. The Italian's dead body was then presented to the Queen. A short time later, when he was twenty-one years of age, Lord Darnley was murdered at the instigation, it is believed, of Mary and the Earl of Bothwell, for in the middle of the hunting season, when Darnley and his followers were celebrating his hunting lodge, it was blown up.

The Cup's magnificent workmanship makes it a most attractive trophy and the winning team returning the lowest combined aggregate score for the seventy-two holes of medal play will keep it for one year. In addition, each member of the team will receive $50.

Entries are contemplated from teams representing Canada, Japan, native-born United States professionals, and foreign-born United States professionals and amateur teams from both the United States and Canada.

DEMANDS OF GERMANY ARE BAR TO LEAGUE

Stresa, Italy. — Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald of Britain told the premiers of France and Italy, it was learned on high authority, that Germany's demands made at the Anglo-German conference at Berlin, precluded immediate German re-admission to the League of Nations.

MacDonald said further, these sources added, Britain wants a proportional disarmament agreement among the continental powers, with the establishment of a control body. Britain would adhere to such a plan without reserve, he declared.

The British stand was reported summed up as follows to the delegates at historic Villa Barrocco:

1. Britain considers it the duty of the three nations represented at Stresa to show their solidarity in the face of re-armament. Britain has decided to do all in her power to give proof of this solidarity.

2. Britain favors collective security. Within the framework of the league she believes security should be organized.

3. Such a task is to be achieved less through disarmament measures than through the fixing of a proportion between the armaments of the principal powers with the establishment of a strict control system to which Britain will adhere without reserve.

4. Britain desires to see Germany return to the League of Nations but in the present circumstances, and given the new demands for power of the third reich, she considers it impossible to open the door of the league to Germany, holding unconditional re-admission would be a "disastrous" example.

A clash of opinion between British and French delegations developed, authoritative quarters said, after France moved unexpectedly to get British and Italian support for her appeal to Geneva against German rearmament.

The French, it was learned, tossed into the midst of the afternoon session their memorandum of Adolf Hitler's alleged repudiations of treaties.

Reliable sources said MacDonald and the British foreign secretary, Sir John Simon, sought to soft-pedal the complaint at Geneva.

Drouth Relief Bill

Action Will Be Taken To Fight Drouth In Prairie Provinces

Ottawa.—Twenty-four hours after it was introduced the government's drouth relief bill passed through the House of Commons. It had the blessing of all parties but warnings were issued against building extravagant hopes.

The bill will appropriate $750,000 this year and $1,000,000 for each of the next four to fight drouth in the prairie provinces. Dams will be built to store water, fibrous grasses sown, trees planted and illustration stations established to show farmers what can be done to reclaim their parched lands.

An advisory committee will be formed to guide the federal department of agriculture, which will co-operate with provincial agencies.

John Brown (Lib., Ligar), a western farmer for 53 years, believed the most good would come from grasses, strip farming and other cultural methods.

The minister said no one must be too optimistic over the scheme. Dams would be built to conserve water but that might or might not produce rain. The main objective was to raise the morale of the people and try to prepare for another drouth cycle.

While supporting the bill, Hon. W. R. Motherwell (Lib., Melville), thought the government should have acted sooner.

Greek Rebellion

50 Officers and Civilians Receive Prison Terms

Athens.—Courts martial here and in Salonika sentenced 20 officers and civilians to prison terms for participation in the Greek rebellion.

Five rebel officers were sentenced to life at Salonika and 12 others to shorter terms. The Athens court martial sentenced eight officers and four civilians to prison terms ranging from two to 20 years. Approximately 250 more prisoners are to go on trial before the naval court martial.

Oppose Plan To Sell Land

Doukhobors Unwilling To Give Up Land They Have Lived On For Many Years

Winnipeg.—Internal dissension in the Christian Community of Universal Brotherhood appeared following a recent announcement of J. P. Shukin, vice-president of the brotherhood, that 30,000 acres of Doukhobor land in the Saskatchewan districts of Verigin, Kylemore and Kelvington would be sold.

Andrew F. Bloodoff, a member of the brotherhood at Verigin, has declared members of the sect in that district are unwilling to leave the home they have lived in for 30 years.

Learning of this alleged complaint from the Verigin district group, Mr. Shukin arranged an interview with Peter Verigin, president of the brotherhood and sect leader who is serving a two-month term in Headingley jail for having assaulted his interpreter.

Mr. Shukin declared, prior to seeing Verigin, the land would be sold and that "any statements to the contrary made by such people as Bloodoff or other Doukhobors in Saskatchewan should be disregarded."

To Aid Celebration

Band Will Offer Services Free For Jubilee Celebration In Calgary

Calgary.—Assistance of bandmen in Calgary's celebration of King George's silver jubilee was pledged by E. S. Harris, secretary of the National Musicians of Canada, Calgary Branch, who said members of his organization were willing to give their services gratis in playing the accompaniment of children's singing May 6.

It was feared the celebrations would have to be called off when musicians, members of a union organization with headquarters in the United States, declined to assist unless payment was made for their service. Alderman Dr. W. A. Lincoln said the city could not afford to pay musicians.

Degree For Bessborough

Conferred By Chancellor Of University Of British Columbia

Vancouver.—The honorary degree of Doctor of Laws and Letters was conferred upon the Earl of Bessborough by Chancellor R. E. McKechnie of the University of British Columbia.

Immediately following the ceremony Lady Bessborough was presented with a bouquet of yellow roses by Miss Clara Brown on behalf of the students of the university.

In acknowledging receipt of the degree His Excellency said that of the many links formed during his tenure as governor-general none were stronger than those forged by the universities of Canada among whose alumni he had been enrolled.

Jap Nationals Admitted

Ottawa.—Japanese nationals admitted to Canada during the four years ended with March 31, 1934, totalled 546 of whom 183 were adult men, 195 adult women and 78 children of both sexes. During the same period 164 British nationals of Japanese birth were admitted to the Dominion. The information was contained in a report tabled in the House of Commons.

WANT PREMIERS TO MEET WITH MAYORS IN EAST

Montreal.—Premiers of all nine Canadian provinces were invited by wire to meet here on April 22 with members of the continuing committee of the Dominion conference of mayors to consider "further decisive steps" in connection with the mayors' claim that the Dominion government should take over complete responsibility for unemployment relief.

The invitation was signed by the entire continuing committee, composed of Mayors Camille Housh, Montreal; James Simpson, Toronto; G. G. McGeer, Vancouver; John Queen, Winnipeg; George Wenige, London; E. J. Cragg, Halifax; and by Fred Bancroft, Toronto, general secretary.

Mayors Housh, Simpson and Wenige, with Mr. Bancroft, met here to discuss the question, the other mayors being consulted by wire.

The wire to the various premiers read:

"You have received a complete copy of the decisions and proceedings of the Dominion conference of mayors which met in Montreal and Ottawa on March 25 to 28 and you will have noticed that one of our two main demands was that for the very strong reasons therein stated the Dominion government should assume the entire responsibility for unemployment relief."

"We have not so far received any answer from the Dominion government. It is urgently necessary to take further decisive steps. We strongly urge you or your representative on behalf of your government to attend a joint meeting of representatives of provincial governments and our continuing committee, in order to discuss the immediate calling of a joint conference of the provincial and municipal governments of Canada. We propose that this first meeting should be held in Montreal on Monday, April 22."

Following their meeting Mayors Housh, Simpson and Wenige wired their colleagues of the continuing committee that "notwithstanding the appalling situation which was laid before the members of parliament and the cabinet indications have reached us that the government is not yet alive to the existing menace to the peace, order and good government of Canada," through the unemployment relief situation.

The conference between the provincial representatives and the continuing committee would be preparatory, in the mayors' plan, to a conference of all Canadian mayors and provincial representatives with the intention of securing a united decision to lay before Dominion authorities.

The mayors saw such a conference a necessity following the statement of Sir George Perley, acting prime minister, last month to the mayors that unemployment relief matters should be taken to the provinces.

Address To King George

Held As German Spy

France Arrest Man Who Frequented High Political Circles

Paris.—Police claimed to have unmasked an important nest of spies in Paris with the arrest of a German, Edward Bernheuer, who they said frequented political circles posing as an apostle of Franco-German rapprochement.

Authorities said they had found on Bernheuer a list of questions asking information on varied military, diplomatic and political subjects which he had asked a French journalist named Armand Avrousart to answer.

Bernheuer, who police alleged was one of the cleverest members of the German intelligence service, was held on a warrant issued by Judge Benon, the magistrate who conducted the original investigations of Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Perceval, naturalized Canadians, and 19 other suspects on spy charges.

A search of Bernheuer's flat, police said, yielded nothing but a curious pencil case containing tear gas. A persuasive and interesting talker, he often frequented high political circles, they said.

Mystery Story

Legendary Gold Find May Bring Gold Seekers To North Area

Edmonton.—District prospectors in the White Court area, 100 miles from Edmonton, are anxiously awaiting the spring breakup to start a search for the legendary gold find of Moos-tas, ancient Indian who died recently with the secret of the source of his reputed find of a few years ago. Inquiries reaching the district from all parts of Canada as a result of the revival of the mystery story, may bring gold seekers from a distance.

Migration Policy Urged

Montreal.—The time had been reached when the governments of Canada and Great Britain should devise a definite joint migration policy, Lord Rodney, of Fort Saskatchewan, Alta., said here in addressing the Montreal branch of the Royal Empire Society.

Jubilee Medals

Want To Know If Medals Are Available For Sale In Canada

Ottawa.—Minister of Finance E. N. Rhodes promised to inform the House of Commons if medals commemorating King George's silver jubilee would be available for sale in Canada and whether they would be received from the royal mint in connection for Canadian distribution.

The finance minister made the promise in a discussion launched by John Vallance (Lib., South Battleford) who told Secretary of State C. H. Cahan he had received a telegram from Lloydminster, Sask., asking if 500 medals could be obtained from the Canadian mint for distribution among school children.

Charles E. Bothwell (Lib., Swift Current) prompted Mr. Rhodes' promise when he asked for information "because the fact is I have written letters giving information to people in my own constituency who have made inquiries." He added: "I hope I have not been misled in the matter."

FEDERAL PLANS FOR RESCUING DROUTH AREAS

Ottawa.—Plans for rehabilitating the drouth and soil drifting areas of the prairie provinces were laid before the House of Commons by Hon. Robert Weir, minister of agriculture. He was introducing a bill which provides $750,000 this year and $1,000,000 annually for four years following, to put these plans into effect.

The prairie farm rehabilitation advisory committee will be appointed to advise Mr. Weir on plans for rescuing the drouth harassed areas. The minister will go west as soon as parliament adjourns for the Easter recess when the committee will be set up and begin operations.

The program in a general way has been worked out, but the committee will advise on its development. Five rehabilitation areas are planned, three in Saskatchewan and one each in the other provinces. Each of these will include about 36 square miles where methods for saving the lands will be demonstrated.

About 50 large illustration stations, ranging from one to two sections will be provided, where the best farmers in any area will be selected to proceed with illustration work. They will be supplied with proper seed and may receive certain payments on an acreage basis for carrying out work of reclaiming the land. Certain abandoned lands will be taken over and efforts made to bring them back into pastures.

Extensive tree planting will be carried out under contract with farmers in two areas, including shelter belts.

Possibly 1,000 small dams will be built on individual farms to conserve water supply. Owners of such farms will be supplied with engineering advice by the department of agriculture as to location of these dams, and in some instances farmers will be assisted to procure materials. A number of larger dams, holding back spring freshets of streams in ranching areas of the three provinces will be constructed. The lakes thus formed will provide both water supplies for livestock and for irrigation purposes.

In addition there will be township areas where supplies of grass seed will be provided to restore pastures when rains make the sowing of such seed advisable.

A considerable program of seed production is planned which will provide abundance of suitable grass and clover seeds to supply areas as required.

The advisory committee, farmer appointees of which will be from drouth areas, will consist of a chairman appointed by order in council:

One representative each of the Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta grain growing farmers.

One representative of Saskatchewan livestock farmers.

One representative of Alberta range farmers.

One representative of mortgage companies of Canada.

One representative of the Canadian Bankers' Association.

One representative each from the Canadian Pacific Railway Company, Limited, and the Canadian National Railways.

Two representatives from the Dominion department of agriculture; and One representative of the department of agriculture of each of the provinces of Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta.

CONFERENCE ON RELIEF PROBLEM IS TO COME SOON

Montreal.—A conference in the near future between the Dominion government and representatives of the provinces in regard to unemployment relief was foreshadowed in a letter received here by Mayor Camille Houde of Montreal from Sir George Perley, acting prime minister.

Sir George's letter was in reply to one seeking information as to the government's plans in regard to relief following the demand last month by the Dominion-wide conference of mayors which asked the government to accept full responsibility of dole costs.

Sir George Perley's letter follows: "As I said at our meeting with you in the railway committee room of the House of Commons on March 28, the government will take into consideration the substance of your representations, but we will follow the usual constitutional practice of dealing with these matters through the provinces. The relief act received royal assent on Friday, April 5, and we have not yet had the opportunity of meeting provincial representatives, although the minister of labor has already been in touch with them by wire."

Word was received here that Mayor James Simpson of Toronto was credited with the statement the Dominion government was prepared to approach the provinces with an offer to underwrite 75 per cent of unemployment relief costs, leaving the remaining 25 per cent to the provinces with the municipalities freed of expense.

Making Complete Recovery

Premier Bennett Planning To Sail For England To Attend Jubilee Celebration

Ottawa.—Although Prime Minister R. B. Bennett had not yet left his apartment he was expected to take some outdoor exercise in a day or two for the first time since Feb. 24, when he was taken ill.

Tentative booking has been made for the prime minister on a steamship sailing from New York at the end of this week to take him to the King's Silver Jubilee celebrations in London.

Mr. Bennett has had several conferences with members of the cabinet over the works legislation now being drafted will prevent his heading the party in the forthcoming general election campaign.

Introduction of the works measure is expected before motion is made for the Easter adjournment.

Mr. Bennett is said to be making a complete recovery and only a further breakdown will prevent his heading the party in the forthcoming general election campaign.

Help Railway Workers

Double Contributions From Heavy Earnings Would "Underdog" Assist

Ottawa.—Railway engineers, conductors and firemen working under certain conditions in a mileage basis that might give them two weeks' pay in one week should make a contribution of 25 cents for "each" week earned to the Dominion unemployment insurance fund, Senator James Murdock told the senate banking and commerce committee.

The former Liberal minister of labor believed the double contribution in such instances would be fair to the "underdog"—the railway sectionman receiving a week's wage for six days' work, and unemployed railwaymen.

Hotels Show Profit

Two C.N.R. Hotels Show Profit On Operating Revenues Last Year

Ottawa.—The Chateau Laurier hotel in Ottawa and the Nova Scotia hotel in Halifax were the only two units of the Canadian National Railways hotel system to show a profit on operating revenues last year. Hon. C. P. Fullerton, chairman of the board of trustees of the house railways committee. The Chateau's profit was $152,000 and that of the Nova Scotia $9,500.

To date, said Mr. Fullerton, $8,544,000 had been spent on the unfinished C.N.R. hotel at Vancouver. It was estimated $2,000,000 more would be required to complete that establishment, including the furnishings.

An Important Discovery

Scientists Intensely Interested In Isolation Of "Immune Bodies"

Isolation for the first time in pure crystalline form of one of the so-called "immune bodies," the little-understood substance which promotes immunity to disease, has been announced at Cornell University.

The discovery is of intense scientific interest because it may lead to advances in the study of the phenomenon of immunity, the process underlying body resistance.

The newly isolated substance is a hemagglutinin (something which causes red blood cells to stick together) extracted from the jack bean. There are large, white beans from a common fodder crop. The hemagglutinin was found by Prof. James B. Sumner and Stacey F. Howell, Ph.D., of the Medical College of Cornell at Ithaca.

The substance is a crystalline protein. It forms double wedge-shaped, colorless crystals. It acts in some unknown way on red blood corpuscles to cause their sticking.

The pure material, even when diluted 10,000,000 times, causes perceptible agglutination of dog and cat red blood cells. It has much less effect on man, where dilution is only 100 to 1,000 times. Cow and sheep blood react to it like man's.

Agglutination is one of the tests for blood transfusions. When blood of two persons is not of the same type one causes agglutination in the other and cannot be used for transfusion.

This agglutination of cells is a process the body employs to fight certain germs. Immunity to typhoid is an illustration.

The mysterious agglutinin produced by injection of the typhoid vaccine causes the typhoid germs to stick together. The belief is that when the typhoid germs are thus bunched it is easier for the white blood cells to destroy them.

Many different kinds of bacteria give rise to agglutinins. Each produces its own agglutinin and each one is specific. In other words, the agglutinin obtained from one disease-producing bacterium is not a protection against some other kind of germ.

Agglutinins are only one of the "immune bodies." Another type is antitoxin, such as diphtheria, tetanus and botulinus antitoxin. A third is the lysins. These have the power of breaking up cells.

The entire class of immune bodies goes by the general name of antibodies. At present they are the keys to immunization.

But their production and use is complicated. Hence the first isolation of one of them in pure, crystalline form is important because it will enable scientists to study the chemical composition of an agglutinin and possibly to produce them artificially at some future date.

Making It Simple

Marriage And Divorce In China An Easy Matter

Shanghai is rapidly becoming the divorce capital of the Orient. In former days, divorce in the interior of China to-day, where the "redning" influences of civilization have not yet penetrated, divorce is a social phenomenon beyond comprehension. But in the big cities along the coast, young Chinese couples now get a divorce in Shanghai with the ease with which American couples secure divorces at Reno. When the couple have "agreed to disagree" they have not even the irksome business of court proceedings.

Judges in China are compelled to grant divorce when both man and wife desire it. So the proceeding has been simplified and all the couple need do is take a statement saying they wish a divorce before a lawyer, paste a government stamp on the statement, and insert an advertisement "to whom it may concern" in a newspaper. Then they can go their separate ways.

Getting married is just as simple. Many marriages are legalized by inserting an advertisement in the vernacular press saying: "We will eat out daily together as man and wife from this day henceforth," and signed by the couple.

Motorist - Very good. My wife did all of the driving.

Freeman - Splendid! And I suppose you just sat back and admired the scenery.

Motorist - All I had to do was to hold the steering wheel.

Has Definite Meaning

Privy Council Admits "O.K." As Legal Answer In Court

O.K. is O.K. Purists may shudder but the edict has gone forth. No less a body than the Privy Council has decided that O.K. may be admitted as a legal answer in a court, and be recognized as having a definite meaning.

The Privy Council has had many strange tasks, but ruling upon the eligibility of a slang expression must surely be one of the most strange. However, faced with the problem (brought to them from a lower court) the members did not hesitate. Some expressed distaste for the expression; others named it a barbarism—but all joined in passing it for common usage.

And, of course, their ruling has brought up the old, old discussion—when came this phrase, or word, or what-is-it?

The most generally accepted theory in Great Britain is that early telegraphers, whose instruments had a sort of dial, with the letters of the alphabet marked thereon with discs, and who operated their machines by depressing these discs required, found the letters O and K the easiest to press because of their nearness. And so, when a message was finished and they wished to signal clear arrival of it, they used to flash back O.K.

Other countries have different versions. The United States claim to be the country of origin of the expression. The French say it started in their fair land, and is an Anglicized version of "au quai," meaning "on the quay"—an expression used to signify the safe arrival of freight from overseas ports.

Although so much used, or perhaps because of it, the expression has countless enemies. In fact, there must be hundreds of thousands who would rather the Privy Council had given O.K. the K.O. instead of O.K.

Pat: "That was a fine sentiment Casey expressed at the dinner last night."

Mike: "What was it?"

Pat: "He said that the sweetest memories in life are the recollections of things forgotten!"

For "defending newspapers" at a public library in Birmingham, England, by writing racing tips on them, Charles Linforth was fined $15. The prosecutor said he might have been imprisoned for two months.

It has been asserted that Leonardo da Vinci was not truly ambidextrous, using either hand indiscriminately, but that he painted with his right hand and drew with the left.

Britain, too, is appalled by the mounting number of highway fatalities and proposes a thirty mile speed limit. In Britain thirty miles will mean thirty miles.

A Common Mistake

Works Of Great Writers Are Very Often Misquoted

A number of papers have recently been quoting Kipling's "Recessional" to the effect that "the tumult and the shouting die." Kipling, however, wrote "dies," a singular verb because tumult and shouting are practically the same thing (and because Rudyard wanted a rhyme for "sacrifice"). A similar example is Shakespeare's "wherein doth sit the dread and fear of kings." In the Bible the singular verb is often used without this excuse, for example, "Out of the same mouth proceedeth blessing and cursing," the two subjects being opposite in meaning. Milton wrote: "Both death and I am found eternal." Byron referred to "What God and Turk and Time hath spared."—Toronto Star.

Will Continue His Work

Sir Wilfred Grenfell Has No Intention Of Retiring

Sir Wilfred Grenfell sees himself "on the wrong side of 70" now but he has no intention of retiring from the Grenfell Association of Hospitals, Schools and Missions which he founded in Labrador and Newfoundland and which he has worked for more than 40 years ago. "I am forced to curtail some of my activities," he said on arriving at New York from Europe for a visit, "but I certainly do not intend to give up my work."

"Women don't go in for exploring," says an explorer who has never found the letters O and K the easiest to press because of their nearness. And so, when a message was finished and they wished to signal clear arrival of it, they used to flash back O.K.

Cancer Warning

Disease Curable If Treated In Early Stages

Dr. Alexander Primrose, Toronto physician touring Canada at the request of the governor-general in connection with the Silver Jubilee Cancer Fund, told members of the health bureau of the Vancouver Board of Trade that cancer is a curable disease if recognized in the early stages. "The supreme challenge to-day to the medical profession is to conquer this demon of cancer," Dr. Primrose said. "Clinical laboratory research has done much to advance our knowledge of the disease but the greatest difficulty encountered is in getting the laity to recognize their responsibility and to secure their co-operation."

"An increasing number of persons come to us for advice at a time when cure is possible," he added, "but many who are well aware of the danger, continue to conceal their troubles until it is too late to save life."

"There you are, dear, my first turkey," she exclaimed.

Mrs. Newedd gazed with admiration at the bird's shape.

"Wonderful, darling!" he said, "How beautifully you have stuffed it!"

"Stuffed!" she echoed. "But, my dear, this wasn't hollow."

"You should take this mullerberry colored dress, madam. It would suit you as you are so pale."

"But I'm not usually so pale. I am only shocked at the price."

Prince Never Bored People

His To British Throne Has Wide Range Of Interests

That the Prince of Wales once sang the Communistic "Red Flag" to his own banjo accompaniment was revealed by Basil Maine in his biography, "The King's First Ambassador," published at Oxford.

A political argument was snuffed by the prince, to the surprise of everybody, striking up the air of the revolutionary song on his banjo, writes Maine. "How good, bad or indifferent the performance was, I have no way of discovering, but it proved to be a master stroke of conciliation," the writer says.

The author tells of another occasion when the prince was to lay the cornerstone of the new parliament buildings in Ottawa years ago. A labor procession arranged for the same day threatened to get out of hand, but the prince took a leading part in the procession and won the marchers over.

On this same tour of Canada another unconventional glimpse of His Royal Highness was provided when 40,000 persons saw him sprint after a wounded soldier's hat and capture it, putting it back on the man's head himself.

"As for professional diplomacy," Maine writes, "the prince never had any ambition to master that art. Since his coming of age he has shown a free and flexible mind that has impatiently cast off the shackles of diplomatic observances. The range of his interests has saved him from becoming the boring, staid, old man or woman of goodwill so often is. That and his capacity for hard work has given him at the age of 40 the look of a man eight or 10 years younger."

Not Used Any More

Rocking Chairs Are Not Seen In Modern Home

Slowly, steadily, insidiously, oblivion is engulfing one of America's once cherished institutions. Rocking chairs have just about gone out. The fashionable modern living room now has none of them. Upstairs there may be one or two battered survivors. But it's away up in the attic that the good old rockers may still be found in all their faded glory.

What has happened? Well, who knows? People just stopped buying rocking chairs. Merchants stopped stocking them. Inspection of one of Woodward avenue's biggest furniture stores the other day developed the presence of just one rocking chair in the whole place. Every other chair of the hundreds on view stood squarely on its four feet.

One can only theorize over this amazing trend. Abolition of the rocker may be a concession to compactness. Footed chairs need less of the modern room's restricted floor space. Also people no longer rock babies. They therefore have less need for rocking chairs.

Or does the whole matter cut even deeper? Perhaps sitting, as such, is no longer the fine art it was in the days of our parents and grandparents. Accomplished sitters are less frequently seen. The intimate association of persons and chairs isn't by any means what it once was. Or perhaps the rocker can ascribe its demise to the fact that it's such a clumsy perch for one to occupy in a bridge fight.—Detroit Saturday Night.

Brought Results

The new treasurer wrote a letter and 50 per cent of those in arrears to the church paid up; he wrote another letter and all but one paid. Finally he wrote one more, and the last man sent in his cheque. Shortly afterwards the pastor was invited to dinner at the man's home.

"You have a new treasurer at the church now, haven't you?" inquired the host.

"Yes," answered the pastor, undecided as to how his parishioners felt towards him.

"He writes a nice letter," remarked the host, "except that he can't spell."

"Is that so?" said the minister.

"Yes; he ought to be corrected on that," said the host seriously. "He spelled 'sunk' with a 'c' and had two 'w's in 'lousy'."

The demand for frozen poultry in England still continues at satisfactory prices, 30,892 boxes having been exported from Canada from January 1 to March 23, 1935, a very large increase over the shipments in the corresponding period of 1934.

Canada's Bacon Trade

This Product Has Now Attained A Reputation Second To None In British Isles

"Bringing home the bacon" would be a paradoxical term to apply to Canada's most successful bacon and pig industry, as Canadian bacon is being sent away from home in increasing quantities and is held in high regard in world markets. Canada's total exports of bacon and hams and shoulders and stews have increased by more than fifteen million dollars in the past three years. In 1932 they amounted to $3,706,871 and in 1934 they totalled $18,952,628.

Unexcelled bacon and other pig products from the farms of the Dominion have captured the fancy of discriminating buyers on a highly competitive market, particularly during the last three years, and such an achievement under the unfavourable economic conditions which have prevailed throughout the world is indeed a feather in the hat of Canadian agriculture. Exports of Canadian bacon and hams to Great Britain during 1934 amounted to almost 120,000,000 pounds with a value of $18,754,113, and the ability of the Dominion to export the product of one million hogs gave impetus to an industry from which Canadian farmers derived an income estimated at between one and one hundred million dollars.

The quality of Canada's bacon and pig products has earned a reputation second to none in world markets, especially in the British Isles. This achievement is due, to a large extent, to the policy adopted by the Canadian Department of Agriculture of promoting improved production methods among hog raisers. Such innovations as the introduction of regulations governing the grading, marketing and sale of bacon with a view to export, grading of hog carcasses, and the importation of ultra-sterilized pig stock for breeding purposes, as well as an intensive campaign to make producers realize the value of specialized pig production, have been largely responsible for the gratifying results obtained.

Bacon grading is one of the cornerstones of the improvement policy, as it standardizes the quality, grade and appearance of the product exported. The object of bacon grading is to raise the general level of the exported product, to establish a basis of merchandizing Canada's bacon as a national product, and to consolidate the Dominion's position for the future on a highly competitive market.

Soil Research

Leading Part Taken By Canada In This Important Work

In all countries soil research is the most important work in agriculture, and in this, as in other branches of science, Canada has taken a leading part. The government has made reference to research and experimental projects in soils, over 100 separate undertakings are officially listed as being under way in Canada. The number of projects alone does not convey a true conception of the vastness of the work being done on soil problems. Because of the broad scope of research and experimental work in the investigation of soil problems, ranging from fundamental studies of the soil itself through the whole field of soil-plant relationship in crop production, it is obviously difficult, as "Scientific Agriculture" points out, to make more than a very broad classification.

To indicate something of the field of investigation covered, the projects may be grouped roughly as follows: soil survey, 10 projects; soil chemistry, 16; soil fertility, (field experiments and correlated laboratory investigations) 49; soil cultivation, 5; and soil microbiology, 5 projects. It would appear that there is opportunity for considerable development in the field of fundamental laboratory investigations in all the provinces.

Has Strange Power

A human dynamo, a 30-year-old furrier, at Klinda, in Bohemia, ought to save on his electric light bills. When he holds a bulb in his hand it glows. When he strokes it with his other hand it turns violet. Heich has made experiments with bulbs of different strengths. He finds that the larger the bulb the stronger the light his hand communicates. Electricians and doctors are to examine his strange power which he discovered accidentally. He cannot account for it himself.

"But . . . My God, man! To do that you've got to inform on Peyotl . . ."

"Well . . . What if I do? What good is Peyotl to anybody?"

"You . . . You can't do it, Sam. You just can't do it."

"Who? Me? I'll show you. I mean to have that girl. We've got our safe full of cash right now. In a week we'll own the Hour-glass and Soda Springs and the mine that old man Kane found. In a year I'll be travelling with my red-headed wife and you can buy one for yourself. Like it?"

Spike did not like it and said so. The risks were too great. But Dustin did not even listen to his objections. He rose suddenly and seized his hat.

"I'm goin' over to the Hour-glass right now," he said.

Spike watched him go and shook his head.

"I wish to God I'd kept clear of Sam," he muttered. "They got nothing on me though. It's always been Sam gave the orders about the cattle. It's been Sam tended to the money end of it. Come to think of it, if anything happens maybe I'll prove to be the smarter man. Sam's headin' fer trouble if his foot slips."

But Dustin was heading at that moment for the Hour-glass. He knew that Crewe and Carr with Stone would be delayed in Seco and he wanted to be the first to tell the news to Edith.

She met him as he was dismounting amid a ring of angry men, for the Broken Spur was not loved at the Hour-glass. Dustin stared them down and faced her calmly.

"I came over here to-night as a neighbor should," he said. "I've got some bad news for you."

"So you came to enjoy telling it?"

"She flung the words at him. "Go on. Tell your news . . . and go."

No More Cheap Mustard for Me!

"What's the trouble now, Anne?"

"I made up my usual tried and tested Pickle recipe, but a friend of mine told me to use Bulb Mustard. It was cheaper. I did. It spoiled the lot!"

"That's too bad, Anne. You'll stick to Keen's after this! It is the pure mustard, so you always know just how much to use and you need never waste or spoil anything."

KEEN'S D.S.F. MUSTARD

Made from seed grown especially in the West of England. The shells or hulls are removed, all the virtue being in the inner part of the seed. A superior grinding makes the full flavor readily available. Is original size for as little as 10c.

"All right . . . If you want it like this. But I warn you, you'd better send those men away and see me in private."

She scanned him even-eyed. There was some indefinable thing about him that convinced her that on this occasion at least he was telling the truth.

"Come then," she said shortly. The men stared after them as she led the way into the house and a little murmur arose that Red Thom quitted. The moment they reached the office she turned shortly on him. "Well," she said: "What is it? To what do we owe the honor of this call?"

"Do you know where your father went?" he asked.

"Of course. To meet his partner, Mr. Gerald Keene, who came on the evening train."

"Right. I'll tell you where he is now . . . They all went to the Silver Dollar saloon. Your father, Crewe, that stranger Stone and a man Keene. They had hot words there of some kind. The lights went out. There was a shot fired. When the lights came on again the man Keene was lying over the roulette table shot through the body and they searched everybody. They found a Derringer pistol that had been fired from your father's pocket. He was standing right by Keene. . ."

For just a fraction of a second Dustin shrank back from the light in her eyes.

"You . . . You liar. . . ." Scorn ineffable rang in her voice. "To come here and tell me a thing like that . . . You mean to tell me that my . . . my father shot this Mr. Keene?"

"He held up a delaying hand. "I mean to tell you that the Sheriff has got evidence that will send your father to the gallows for having shot Gerald Keene. I'm the only man in the world who can prove he didn't . . . Get me now? The first thing they'll search for is a motive. Why should Joe Carr shoot his partner? They'll find the motive in old Peter Vinton's will. The man Keene died a little while ago. You can verify what I say by telephone. Call up Doctor Epps. He's taken the wounded man to his house. By Keene's death, your father gets the other half of the Hour-glass. He owes me more than he can pay. There's the motive. The fact remains that I've told you the truth. The Sheriff got proof that your father shot his own partner to get his share of the Hour-glass. . . That's part of what I've got to tell you. . ."

She swayed on her feet and her face, once red-and-white turned pale but the light in her eyes never changed.

"Call up Epps in Seco on the phone," he said.

She stepped to the wall-instrument, snatched the receiver and got the number. Dustin could not hear what was said from Seco but he saw her face flash and her lips quiver. Her free hand gripped at the wall for support.

"Then as I understand you, Doctor, my father is under arrest for . . . the killing of Gerald Keene . . . Is that right?"

Followed a buzzing again across the wire that her clear voice cut. "What? . . . You say Mr. Keene died a short time ago . . . Oh . . . I see. . ."

She turned away from the telephone and faced Dustin and the whole demeanor changed. She seemed to have shrunk and lessened but her eyes shone with an indomitable glow.

"He . . . Doctor Epps says you are correct . . . That my father undoubtedly shot Mr. Keene. He says Mr. Keene died. . . And . . ."

For the first time she broke down and sank into a chair and buried her face in her hands while her body shook. Dustin came over and stood by her and ventured to lay a hand on her shoulder.

"It may not be quite as bad as you think," he said.

"How? Not as bad as I think . . . I know Daddy never did it. Of course he didn't do it. . ."

"The Sheriff has evidence that he did," said Dustin. "They've established the motive. They found the man dead across the roulette table. Shot with a big soft-lead bullet from a Derringer pistol. They found Carr standing right by him and in his pocket was a Derringer pistol. It had just been fired. The bullet from Keene's body struck it. Will a jury want more evidence than that? Use your brains."

She could not. They seemed atrophied.

"There's one way out," he said. "His eyes sought hers but her gaze wavered and dropped. Some occult sense told her what was coming."

"What would you give," he said, "if a man could be found who could refute all that circumstantial evidence?"

dence? What price would you be willing to pay to save your father a coroner's inquest, an indictment, a trial and . . . a conviction. That conviction means a hanging."

"You mean . . . To hang some one else . . .?"

"I mean to hang the really guilty man. Look here. No beating about the bush. I know who shot Keene. I'll come forward and give testimony that will clear your father and hang the guilty man . . . If you will marry me. . ."

"You . . . you cur," she said. "To bargain over a man's life. I knew what you were. . ."

"Stick to your tie-ropes," he said. "If I forget what I know, your father hangs. . ."

In less than ten seconds she reconstructed the evidence. She knew that Dustin told the truth. The evidence was sufficient for any Frontier jury. Her father would hang.

"I . . . I . . . You mean that if I marry you, you will clear my father?"

"Exactly. You've put it in a nutshell. . . I want time. . ."

"In twenty-four hours the man will have left the country. . ."

"I . . . I can't tell you now . . . I want time. . ."

"I give you till to-morrow. . ."

"Can't you be decent just once? There is no question of love in this. . . I hate you. . ."

"What difference does that make? I break any horse in my corral till he answers to my hand. You'll do the same. I want you. That's enough. If I choose to marry the daughter of a cold-blooded murderer who shot his own partner . . ."

The telephone rang again and she leaped for it.

"Epps again, Miss Edith. Crewe is comin' right out. Stone is staying in for the night." She turned to Dustin.

"Come over to-morrow," she said wearily. "You know of course that I will try to find some way out of this . . . If there is no way . . . I . . . I . . . I'll have to pay the price."

He had to be content with that but he almost slunk to his horse as he walked to the horse-block under the malignant stare of the Hour-glass waddies.

Stone went straight to Jameson's office and stayed there till Jameson stormed back into the place.

"No luck at the Broken Spur," he said. "Peyotl isn't there. And I can't get any trace of old man Kane. Have you telephoned Epps?"

"Listen to me, Jameson. I'm layin' all my cards on the table. . . But one. I'm keepin' an ace buried. Joe Carr never fired that shot. The man who shot Keene had the gun wrapped in this. . ."

He laid before that yellow-and-green bandanna . . . "Look at the shot, holes in it. Snell it. . ."

Stone fished from his pocket the broken fragments of cigarettes that he had found by the lonely camp-fire up Red Water canon and the single specimen that he had taken from Dustin in the golpe de caballo.

"Check 'em up," he said. "Who do you reckon fired that shot?"

Jameson considered carefully.

"Some one who uses peyotl," he said. "All right. Who's that?"

"I only know one. . . Peyotl Gregg and he ain't to be found at the Broken Spur."

"There's only one other place he can have gone. If he's not at the Broken Spur he must be here in Seco."

"We can probably find him down in the Mexican settlement," said Jameson. "That's the only place he can get his drug. Let's go there."

It took three hours but they finally dug Peyotl up, a drug-sodden wreck from the jacale of Pascual Mendez. He reeked of opium, that drink that has a special stink of its own, and they slammed him unceremoniously into the rear seat of Jameson's car.

"You question him," said Jameson. "Where did you get the pistol that you shot that man Keene with?" demanded Stone.

Miners Have Sentiment

One Rescued Tiny Apple Tree Growing Below Surface

In an Ontario nickel mine, 600 feet below the surface, miners found a tiny, stunted apple tree doing its best to keep alive with no more encouragement than the rays of a light.

Evidently some workman's abandoned apple core had contained a seed "that took root far down in the earth."

Instead of crushing the plant, the man who found it rushed to the surface, called his fellow-workers, and after showing it to them, tenderly lifted the small tree and carried it to his home.

The English poet Gray wrote about flowers that waste their sweetness on the desert air. It might have been called his fellow-workers, and after showing it to them, tenderly lifted the small tree and carried it to his home.

The English poet Gray wrote about flowers that waste their sweetness on the desert air. It might have been called his fellow-workers, and after showing it to them, tenderly lifted the small tree and carried it to his home.

Perhaps it was the unthinking courage of the plant that appealed to those men whose fortitude is tested every time they go to their labors. There is some hope for a world in which the most grinding of toil can not crush the poetry out of a man's soul.

THE RHYMING OPTIMIST

By Aline Michaelis

TO A YOUTH

Never doubt that spring will come,
Lacking not one flower;
Song of thrushes, bees loud hum,
All its age-old down!
You are young, lad, and in youth
Loss may seem Earth's ending;
Later you will learn this truth:
Hearts were made for mending!

Never doubt that spring will wear
All of beauty's guises;
Primrose petals in her hair,
April's gay surprises!
However dear the thing
Life from you has taken,
Still the lark is on the wing,
Still the rose will wake!

Remarkable Sentences

A sentence in a handbook of "Useful Russian Phrases for the Tourist" runs: "Good Heavens! Our position has been struck by lightning!" This reminds us of an old French exercise book which contained the following remarkable sentence: "My little dog has beautiful hair, but I cannot eat this greasy soup."

The coins of many foreign nations are manufactured in the United States at cost.

France may outlaw all overtime work.

Little Helps For This Week

"God is our refuge and strength, a very present help in time of trouble. Therefore will we not fear, though the earth be removed and though the mountains be cast into the midst of the sea." Psalm 46:1-2.

Though waves and storms go o'er my head,
Though health and strength and friends be gone,
Though joys be withered all, and death,
Though every comfort be withdrawn,
On this my steadfast soul
Relies—
Father, thy mercy never dies.

Your external circumstances may change, toll may take the place of rest, sickness of health, trials may thicken within and without. Externally you are the prey of such circumstances, but if your heart is stayed on God no changes or chances can touch it, and all that may befall you will but draw you closer to Him. Whatever the present moment may bring, your knowledge that it is His will and that your future heavenly life will be influenced by it, will make all not only tolerable but welcome to you. Nothing can affect you greatly when you know that He who holds you in His powerful hand cannot change, but almighty forever.

Applications Falling Off

Not Very Many Patents Sought For New Inventions

According to figures of the United States Patent Office there has been a great falling off in applications for new patents the past few years. A noted inventor wonders why.

One reason may be that with so many men in the mechanical industries out of work they have lost contact with their work, and have had no occasion to think of ways of improving on what they are doing, or of inventing anything new. Another reason may be that modern machinery has reached such a degree of perfection that the scope for new devices is very much narrowed.

Until some new principles are opened up, the field of invention is nowadays limited. Perhaps the world needs a rest anyway from so much inventiveness. If thinkers had not been so restlessly inventive there would be fewer unemployed everywhere.—St. Thomas Times-Journal.

"He's been sitting there all day, doing nothing but wasting his time."

"How do you know?"

"Because I've been watching him."

The oyster is a useful food for treatment of nutritional anemia, since it contains almost as much iron and copper as liver.

Now you can banish constipation. For these reasons it is the use of costly, definitely richer in mineral and habit-forming drugs. Doctors advise Quaker Bran—the natural coating of the wheat. Let it work with nature to promote normal, healthy bowel movement.

Remember, Quaker Bran is different from all prepared bran cereals. It is pure bran, uncooked—untreated—unadulterated.

Queer Things At Auction

Only Curio Dealers Bid For Hand Of Witch

A witch's hand was offered at auction in London recently. It was that of Mary Holt, a Fulbrough woman, who was hanged for witchcraft. It was not sold. Only curio dealers bid for it. They went up to nearly $20, at which point the hand was bought in by its owner. The same thing happened to a heart pierced with pins, another old Sussex witchcraft charm. One Hallett, who lived at New House, bragged with considerable success, and prospered greatly with the aid of his charms. Examples of his "life-giving" stock-in-trade were on sale. A glass-encased "groto" called by Hallett a Nativty brought $55.

Constipation Gone Says Montreal Woman

Mrs. J. H. Laliberte, 7236 Drolet St., Montreal tells us with how Fruit-A-Vives brought her quick relief from constipation. She gave her experience before a notary so you would be sure that it is true. Mrs. Laliberte relates, "I used to be taken with bad spells of irritability and lassitude. I could not eat right. I did not sleep well and could do my work only with great difficulty. This was due to chronic constipation from which I suffered severely. Soon after I started on Fruit-A-Vives I became regular, my headaches and irritation disappeared. I have lots of energy now and can do all my work without any trouble."

Copy of Mrs. Laliberte's sworn statement will be sent on request. Write Fruit-A-Vives, Ltd., Ottawa, Canada.

Still Use Old System

Steaming Ashes And Nile Mud Hatch Chickens In Egypt

Every year Egypt exports hundreds of millions of eggs to other countries, yet hens with chicks are almost never seen there. The explanation is that eggs are artificially hatched by a system that has not changed in 4,000 years. The eggs lie for a while in steaming ashes, deep down in the hatching pits. Later they are put beneath black cupolas of Nile mud, lying on camel dung and covered with palm leaves. The system is so accurate that attendants can tell to the hour when the chicks will hatch.—Detroit News.

Mrs. Fay Stone and Mrs. Elliott were visitors to Calgary on Friday.

The long overdue Jack Pine Special made the run up the line and back last Tuesday. We had almost forgotten about it.

How about getting up a petition to try and induce the C.P.R. to put a light motor train on this line and give us a daily service. It is near election time, perhaps we could get the promise of help from some of the new political parties. One or two more promises should not make much difference.

When we started on the foundation of the new hall, some said it is impossible as it was frost too hard—like the Social Credit opponents said "it can't be done"—but, the farmers turned out in bunches, and with a liberal combination of an air and elbow grease the ground was loosened up and levelled down, and the log walls put in place ready for the floor and roof.

Thanks to the generosity of the Curling Club we have the lumber to go ahead with.

Quite a number from around here took in the Horse Show and Bull Sale at Calgary. All report having a good time. Their only regret seems to have been that they could not find more time to help boost the price of barley.

John Robertson bought a choice Hereford bull at the Bull Sale, John says he got him at a "just price."

Perhaps we may yet get the new hall ready in time to hold a few political meetings before election.

BORN—To Mr. and Mrs. T. R. Taylor of Carstairs on April 15, a daughter.

LARGE CROWD ATTENDS COMEDY AT MADDEN

The hit of the season was staged at Madden on Friday, April 12th, when the Westcott Players put on a three act comedy, "Here Comes Charlie." The capacity crowd voiced its best evening's entertainment seen in these parts for some time. The characters were very well chosen and each showed the results of many hours of hard study.

Miss Marian Ingham directed the play and also occupied the leading role as Charlie.

The dance following the play was well attended and much enjoyed. Excellent music was supplied by Ken. Borbriggs and his Gloom Busters.

There are two topics of interest occupying the minds of Albertans these days; the weather is one, Social Credit is the other.

Nothing can be done about the weather and practically nothing about Social Credit; they are both more or less unresolvable.

Bedding Out Plants

Place your orders with Wm. Laut for bedding out plants and get Bill Brown's; they never fail to give satisfaction. Cabbage and cauliflower a specialty. Tomatoes, celery and a large number of different kinds of flowers will be ready around May 15th.
